

saxophone

RooPads™

MusicMedic.com

Congratulations on your RooPads™ installation!

Your instrument repair technician must really care about you, because you didn't get just any old pad installed in your saxophone: you got RooPads™!

RooPads™ from MusicMedic.com are premium professional saxophone pads that are used by the greatest players in the world.

Each pad is hand-assembled and quality checked at our shop in Wilmington, North Carolina, USA. The unique leather is tanned according to our specifications and imported from Australia and we use only the most premium European felt, resulting in the finest, most stable pad available.

In order to have RooPads™ installed on your saxophone, it must be in excellent mechanical order, so you can rest assured that your technician carefully prepared your instrument to receive these professional grade pads. You can look forward to many years with stable, firm, strong, and less sticky pads!

Maintaining your RooPads™:

Even when you regularly swab your instrument, some debris will eventually build up on pads, especially in the palm keys, Low Eb, and G#. For best results, use Pad Magic from MusicMedic.com to clean the pad and prevent sticking.

If you received white RooPads™, after some time you may notice a slight discoloration where the pad contacts on the tone hole. This is normal and will not affect the performance of the pad in any way: it is simply a result of brass being in contact with the leather.